

Manchester Daily News

DISSOLUTION THREATENS GERMAN EMPIRE TWO DICTATORS STRIVE TO CONTROL SITUATION

JAILER AND CONDEMNED CONVICT DEAD AFTER PRISON GUN FIGHT

Chaos Threatens As Stresemann Surrenders to France—State of Emergency Required Drastic Action Says' President Ebert—Reichswehr on Guard.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 27.—The men who already threatened to do so are dead in a hospital from bullet wounds. The result of an attempt to seize the prison where they were held at gunpoint.

A dispute has been opened at Berlin to counteract the action of the Bavarian aristocrats supporting a dictator.

When Jules Cambon opened his office in Paris yesterday, he was taken to a hospital by his wife, who had been shot.

The man who was last seen to have been shot was later received to have been shot.

Both prisoners died in their beds. Authorities are trying to identify them.

One had been sentenced to death.

Others officers attacked by the shooting, easier to the jailor.

Sixty-four are ready to join with Russia.

Unless the federal government in Berlin succeeds in electing the movement, Germany will be within a few weeks in a position to make its own arrangements.

The advantage of controlling the army and may be able to prevent a national collapse. However, its position has been strengthened considerably by the reparations issue.

Berlin, Sept. 27.—Minister of Defense Gessler may be supported by the majority of the national guard.

He has been elected to the Reichstag.

MAN WHO SAW LINCOLN'S FACE 21 YEARS AGO DESCRIBES HOW EMANCIPATOR LOOKED

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 27.—The man who last saw Abraham Lincoln, R. D. Monroe, of this city today recalled memories of the great statesman as he was when human eyes last looked upon him twenty-one years ago today. Monroe was a member of the board of trustees of the Lincoln museum, which recently was moved from President's Palace before it was sealed in a huge mass of steel and concrete beneath the shaft erected in the basement.

Before the trustees' staff conference that Lincoln's remains were actually in the casket, in the face of many rumors that the body had been removed, they determined to open the casket to give positive identification. A Lincoln guard of honor was gathered in secret in one of the rooms of the museum. Dr. Charles B. D. Monroe, then a young physician, was called in by the trustees to examine the body. He found the features perfectly preserved, though the skin was yellowed and shriveled. He said Lincoln's hair was thinning, his eyes were half closed, his hands were cold, his fingers were stiff, and his pulse was weak. He said Lincoln's features were those of a man in his sixties, though he was only forty-five at the time of his death.

WILL HOUSE PRICELESS RELICS OF WASHINGTON

Masonic Memorial Will Keep Hoofbeams Safe for $10 Millions

The George Washington Masonic National Memorial, being erected at Alexandria, Va., will be open to the public on Oct. 15, and the price of admission will be $10 million, according to Washington Masonic Lodge No. 22, in which George Washington is buried.

Washington's tomb is located in the grounds of the Washington National Cemetery, which adjoins the Masonic Lodge.

It is the largest and most elaborate Masonic tomb ever built.

Washington's body was brought into the room and was placed in a sealed casket, which was closed.

"He looked just like the picture," said Monroe as he was reminiscing. "His features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"His head was plainly bald," Monroe concluded. "Part of his hair had been cut off, but it had grown back again, and the skin was very wrinkled, and his hair was in such a condition that it was hard to tell if he had been dead for two or three years."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

"The features were extremely lifelike, and the color of his skin had not faded since his repose."

"He was buried in a simple wooden casket, which was covered with a white sheet, and the lid was closed over him."

"He had been buried in his pants," said Monroe as he was reminiscing.

History Repeats and Yankees Hit Batting Slump Similar to Last Year

Ruth Has Fallen Down While Rest of American League Champs Follow Suit—Present State of Low Visibility Angers Poor Results for World's Series.

New York, Sept. 27.—Just twelve and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't. Surely it would be the height of presumption to stake one of the wins when the noble fellow is unable to like it.

Mr. Ruth, when he hits, they could not hit a medicine ball with a fly swatter, and, in consequence, the Great pitcher was made to appear better than he really is. Histories and electric ballotins have been known to repeat, likewise the Yankees.

Today, they are in another hole, and the rest of the American League, the well known left fielder, has become a party to the proposition. In fact, George has hit in frequent late games, but the Great pitcher was made to appear better than he really is. Histories and electric ballotins have been known to repeat, likewise the Yankees.

"I don't like the way the Sox are swinging," said Eddie Ruppert, manager of the Red Sox. "The game two days ago was the last remnant of last year when the team fell into a batting slump before the end of the campaign and came right through the world series."

It is no star chamber secret that the ball club in Toto, simple self with marked tendency to any

World's Series Stars

MIKE GAZELLA, utility man, New York Yankees. Mike is a real colt, better known for his ability on the football field than on the diamond; played baseball and football on the Lafayette College for three years and was a member of the All-American honor; he came to the Yankees in midseason this year, just in time to fall heir to a world series check; he was born in Olympia, Pa., October 10, 1897; he bats and throws right-handed.

FRED HOPMANN, catcher, New York Yankees.

Lucky Fred, as he is called, has had some success or two but nearly late August he was hitting in the bat at a good clip and a batter of his own, has never placed in the minor leagues coming to the Yankees in midseason this year, he averages 360 subjects. To strike out, he is about ready to go now. He bats twenty-four times a week, weighs 180 pounds, with any bat all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real colt, like Mike

and all moulds that may seize upon him, when he doesn't, they don't.

George is a real

Notice of Public Entertainments, not exceeding two hours, will be run at the top of "Twenty-one" at $1.50 per ticket each matinee.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Jane Cleveland

Mrs. Jane Cleveland died at the house of her son, Albert Cleveland in Providence, R. I., last evening after a lingering illness. Mrs. Cleveland had been in the home of her son practically all summer and while there was taken ill. Besides the son in Providence, she is also survived by a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Keel, of 56 Holt Street, Boston, where she made her home. Mrs. Cleveland was a native of Stafford Springs and was 83 years old. Her husband died about 20 years ago. It is expected that a funeral will take place in Stafford Springs, the funeral arrangements were not completed this morning.

Modest and Old Fashioned

DANCE
West Side Rec.
Friday, Sept. 28th
Fontaine's Orchestra
PROF. BEEBE, Promoter

NEWSY NOTES

A son was born yesterday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Messing of 115 Oak street. Mrs. Messing was formerly Miss Agnes Tournaud.

Miss Alice Hause has returned from a trip to New York where she purchased a full line of new Fall millinery.

Kemp's Music House is busily engaged moving their stock to a larger store in the Johnson block, formerly occupied by the Atlantic & Pacific store. The A. & P. will occupy the quarters vacated by Mr. Kemp.

The Teachers' Training Class of the South Methodist church will meet this evening at 7 o'clock. The regular prayer and praise service will be at 7:30, which all are invited.

Mr. Lydia Bastillar of Tillingham is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Louis Laine of Hartford road.

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Anderson and family of Wadsworth, Mass., arrived today for a vacation and will visit with Mr. Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Anderson of 68 Garden street. Mr. Anderson is a former member of Bird & Son, the well-known clothing manufacturers, and will leave tomorrow for several days' business trip to Philadelphia.

Fred Patton will sing at the South Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday October 7 at 7:30 morning service.

Natalia Manzarevsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Manzarevsky of Elm street, a graduate of Trinity college, left town Tuesday to take a post graduate course at Columbia University.

There will be another modern and old fashioned dance at the West Side Rec. tomorrow evening. Fontaine's Orchestra will furnish the music and Prof. Beebe will be the prompter.

Albert E. Bostwick, and family, of Worcester, will be in town for the last part of this week for Dartmouth, Florida, where they intend to locate. Mr. Bostwick was lastly operator for The News until recently.

Mrs. Eusebie Kehl and Mrs. Charles Schubert of Cooper street are spending several days with Mrs. Margaret Stumm of Springfield, Mass., who formerly lived in Manchester.

TROLLEY HITS COUPE NEAR COOPER STREET

A Ford coupe owned and driven by Carl Oman, of the Midland apartments was badly damaged this morning by a westbound trolley car which ran into the corner of Cooper and Center streets this morning. Mr. Oman was trying to catch the 7:45 Hartford trolley in order that his wife, who accompanied him, might ride into Hartford. He passed the trolley car just east of Cooper street and when he stopped his auto at the stop he was unable to get down to the trolley tracks. The result was that the motorman could not bring his car down in time as the leaves on track avoided a collision. Neither the couple nor Oman were injured but the automobile will require some little repairs before it is fit to run again.

STORE CLOSING CENTENNIAL WEEK

It has been agreed by the Manchester Merchants Association to observe the following closing hours during the Centennial week. Monday, as usual at six o'clock; Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings, close at nine o'clock. Friday and Saturday closing one o'clock for the benefit of the day workers and others should bear in mind these closing hours for next week. All stores which remained open during the Centennial week will be closed during the days following. The closing hours appearing in these columns yesterday were incorrect. They appear in the authorized schedule.

HARRY HADLEY SPEAKS TO SILK MILL WORKERS

Cab Reporter Inspires to Write About Man Who "Came Back"—Small Crowd Listens to Interesting Talk.

A splendid talkfest was on the program at Cheney Hall yesterday afternoon, at 12:40, when Mr. Hadley of New York gave his personal experiences in competing his life over. Mr. Hadley is a speaker and a mission at St. Mary's church all this week, and St. Mary's church is the one in which the Peasant Revolution will take place in Stafford Springs, the funeral arrangements were not completed this morning.

MISSION LEADER IN POWERFUL ADDRESS

The story of Jerry McAuley, gang leader and river pirate, formed the basis of the most stirring address of the day in the meetings at St. Mary's Episcopal church, as told by E. C. Mercer last night to an audience which only juvenile theme, we enjoyed his talk as much as the older men, even though we were kept busy digging down our seats.

Fluent Speaker

That he was a master at his chosen art was very plain at the start. He didn't say a few words that will find a place in God's word which says that the Christian life is easy. Christ has not yet laid His head upon us.

Like the street Arabs and the gamblers of the poor quarters of our great cities, he took to stealing when he was born. Then he was man with a meaningful flow of verbiage, so it was no need to listen to previous meetings elsewhere than we just attended as a mere spectator. But he started right in the real, and in clear concise sentences, he brought home his message to his listeners, who were greatly interested in plain unvarnished form.

Motherless He Grows Astray

It had been said to have his mother when only ten days old, and for a long time he had no time for his business. Then he had a careful sparing of 15 cent gave the old away to his grandfather, who was then engaged in the art of making shoes.

Jerry McAuley was converted seven years later by the testimony of Al Gardner, a converted friend, and friend of McAuley's. McAuley was later the main bringer of many to the church.

He came to a large number of prisoners. The Governor of the State of New York came to visit him and enewed his profession of religion, although he was an atheist.

He was then engaged in the art of making shoes.

He followed the primitive path that had the proverbial pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, but he slipped off the awfully life when he was not following the golden path, lost by the manipulation of the racing jockeys.

He stated that he had always been a gambler, from the first time he had a dollar, and for eighteen months he fought a game fight for his black character.

He was then, and never violated the laws of God or man for a long period.

But the urging came back, and he had to give up his swiftest and easiest. Back to the old life!

A Failure At 31

He reached the age of 31, the year he had been re-engaged for the coming year. His classes will meet twice a week. Monday and Wednesday evenings, open to any resident of the town regardless of present stage of advancement in mathematics.

FRED W. WOODHUSE, Collector.

PEASANTS SUPPRESSED
day, said the Peasant Revolution trigonometry will depend on the number who may wish to take work in the three branches.
The principal of the evening
school and the instructor represented that all prospective students registered for that branch of mathematics which will meet their immediate needs.

(Copyright 1923 by I.N.S.)

This message automatically delivered reports current in Belgrade

Zaikoff, Premier of Bulgaria in a and Athens that the Bulgarian telegram to International News to-premier had been assassinated.

INDIANS ARE COMING

We have Indian Gasoline for them and also for you. The Gas of High Mileage. Yale Cord Tires and Tubes in all sizes at Popular Prices.

CRANK CASE SERVICE

Now is the time to change your oil.

TURNPIKE GAS STATION

EARL J. CAMPBELL, Prop.
Cor. Middle Turnpike and Main Street

Centennial Agricultural ExhibitSCHOOL STREET REC.*Notice of Tax Collector

OF THE NINTH SCHOOL DISTRICT OF MANCHESTER

All persons liable to pay the taxes of the Ninth School District of Manchester are hereby notified to pay the amount due on the first day of October, 1923.

Public Evening Schools

One of the departments of the Public Evening School which is appealed to by a large number of the students is the arithmetic department. Last year the scope of the work in mathematics ranged from the fundamentals in arithmetic to trigonometry. The instructor in arithmetic has now been re-engaged for the coming year.

The courses in all subjects have been re-engaged for the coming year.

Twice a week, evenings, from 7 to 9 o'clock, the school is open to all students.

Persons who are interested in participating in the school may do so.

William E. Hill, Chairman Agricultural Committee

Telephone 896-4

The Silk City Motor Sales Co.

ANNOUNCE THEIR APPOINTMENT

As Exclusive Dealers in Manchester

OF THE CELEBRATED

1924 Models on Display

Come in and see the Famous New 1924 Buick and let us give you a demonstration in a car with 4-Wheel Brakes and a 70 H. P. Motor.

ON DISPLAY AT

W. R. TINKER, JR.'S SALESROOM AND SERVICE STATION

130 Center Street JAMES M. SHEARER, Manager South Manchester

Takes The Fatal Step

He decided that running with the speed meant too much driving up the cost of his car. Mrs. Carol Charlot and her son, Eddie, had been together with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Mcintosh of Buckland were in the car at the time, but found the car was being injured by the speed. He decided to go half way on the sidewalk after hitting the Essex. The Chevrolet hit the Essex with such force that it was pushed into a tree. The car was a total loss.

The car was a total loss. The driver, Eddie, was not seriously injured, but the passenger, Mrs. Carol Charlot, was severely injured. She was taken to the hospital, but died before she could be operated on.

The damage was settled by Mr. Howes

IN THE NIGHT

He decided that running with the speed meant too much driving up the cost of his car. Mrs. Carol Charlot and her son, Eddie, had been together with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Mcintosh of Buckland were in the car at the time, but found the car was being injured by the speed. He decided to go half way on the sidewalk after hitting the Essex. The Chevrolet hit the Essex with such force that it was pushed into a tree. The car was a total loss.

The car was a total loss. The driver, Eddie, was not seriously injured, but the passenger, Mrs. Carol Charlot, was severely injured. She was taken to the hospital, but died before she could be operated on.