Sixty-Eighth Congress Meets Today Amid Conditions Unique In Political History Of U. S.

Torn With Factional Strife and Facing Presidential Year Legislative Program is Expected to Be Productive of Few Results.

Washington, Dec. 3.—The sixty-eighth congress convened here today thirteen months after its election amid conditions that are unique in the legislative and political history of the country.

Few congresses in the past have been torn with more voluminous array of domestic problems, nor been so torn with factional strife, and few have had less time of construction accomplished.

Two obstacles stood at the opening today as barriers to an smooth running, workmanlike procedure, (1), the fact that neither Republicans nor Democrats have a working majority in either house.

(2), the fact that the new session is going straight into a heated Presidential campaign, and only two weeks away with all forces striving for political advantage.

Both houses were called to order sharply at noon. There were few vacant seats on either side, and the galleries were packed with scores crowding the doors, and the corridors.

Prayer on the chapels opened the proceedings, both House and Senate adjourned from J. J. Muir, measurer of the house of the assembly at the passing of the late President Harding during the interior and asked that divine guidance be given upon his successor in the White House.

The Senate adjourned.

Senator LaFollette was absent when the adjournment fell at the time he said he had recovered from the grippe that kept him bedfast for a fortnight but he was in such condition his physician advised against his appearing today.

Mrs. Coolidge, wife of the President, was in the President's executive box, and became the cynosure of all eyes as her presence was whispered around the crowded galleries.

The first seven of the new senators sworn in were Democrats and the fact that each was recruited up the aisle by a Republican gave electric tension to the sharp return that took place in the hall.

It was eloquent of how close is the division of strength in the new senate.

Prepared to Be Greeted.

The following nominations were made:

Frank C. H. Gillett, Representative, Wisconsin.

John J. Garrett, of Tennessee.

Dense, "Dense."

Has C. Allen Cooper, of Wisconsin, 42, a enthusiastic outburst of applause greeted the nomination of Gillett by Representative Anderson of Minnesota. Virtually all of the Republicans, representatives and senators, voted for Gillett.

plause greeted the nomination of Gillett by Representative Anderson of Minnesota. Virtually all of the Republicans, representatives and senators, voted for Gillett.

Prolonged cheering and applause broke out when Representative Henry T. Rainey, Democrat of Illinois, nominated Garrett for the speakership.

In nominating Cooper, Representative Charles Browne, Republican of Indiana, declared that "Garrison, the speaker of the last big session of the House would make a complete reformation of the rules of the House which in the past have done much to hamper our legislation that was the best interest of the people of the country."

Madden Withdraws.

Rep. Martin Madden, Republican of New York, who was secretary of the Senate, and James B. Burns of Monticello, N. Y., as sergeant-at-arms.

Hard Work.

"The Democratic keynote for the new Congress will be hard work and deficit of action," said Senator Robinson, after the caucus.

There was and will be absolute harmony in the Democratic ranks.

FURNELL PLACE

For the first time in its history Purnell Place was given a scraping and cleaning last Saturday. After the copious rains of Friday day and night had left the place in a really unsanitary condition, Rod Superintendent John Dugney sent word and a double team to the scene early Saturday morning and after a thorough scrubbing and removal of all the dirt and other effluvia accumulations took place. The job was well done. It was sorely needed. By the end of the afternoon of Saturday, Friday evening of the cleaning, Purnell Place is to be accepted as a "public highway" under the supervision, care and responsibility of the State Department of Health. This is what it should be. Therefore it was a so-called "private way" and consequently was recognized as nobody's child. Hereafter it will doubtless receive paternal care.

ABATING NUISANCE

The earth which was removed in making excavations for the two new buildings which the J. H. Coffey Company has put in position on Maple street near Main is now being removed from the premises. It is being removed on the Elbridge property, starting with the rear of the house at "Dry Brook" at the rear of the South Manchester Free Library. By filling in the land there, grading in the grass and the like, the value of the site of the location will be materially improved. The offensive condition which have been tolerated along that road by the Coffey and Schell streets should be removed. This filling in on the Elbridge property is a motion leading in the direction of more pleasant living along that area of great value. Purnell Place. There's room for more improvement.

DESIGNATING STATIONS

The Connecticut Company are now looking for their stations upon the new White Way standards on Main street, both sides. These are to indicate stations at which trolley cars will be stopped for the receiving of messages. For the past two months past there have been no such indicators to point out trolley stops along the White Way. Now, however, and here they are placed and all painted a dark bottle green. This late accommodation furnished by the Connecticut Company will greatly impress the traveling public. Conductors and motormen will also approve of the station markers. They will be sure to approve of the station markers. The wife later informed you she had taken up the plan of selling at department stores for $5.
