RAIL COMBINES RATE REFORMS AND PROHIBITION ARE REVIEWED

President's First Message Treats On Many Legislative Needs—Farmer Relief and Coal Problems Seriously Considered—Backs World Court But Comes Out Strongly Against League of Nations—Would Alter Immigration Quota Law.

The policies of the Administration with respect to all the complex domestic and international problems confronting the Government and the people were outlined to the country today by President Coolidge in his first address to Congress.

The great domestic questions of taxation, transportation, agriculture, the care of World War veterans, and the nation's development in general occupied most of the President's address, but he began with a brief discussion of the foreign relations of the United States, and voiced his approval of American entrance into the Permanent Court of International Justice, with suitable reservations directing this tribunal from its progenitor, the League of Nations.

The President strongly recommended reductions in federal taxation, urging the immediate adoption of the plan proposed by Sec-

THE LITIGATED PRESS-PATENT

These patents have an important place in modern life. In 1922 they were granted to the press-patent company, which is a subsidiary of the United States in a suit through which a patent company tried to enforce its contract with a retailer.

The decision was that restrictive clauses in the contract brought into effect with the provision in the contract with a retailer.

In August, 1928, the Federal Trade Commission followed up this decision by ordering the press-patent company to cease and desist from enforcing its contract with retailers.

The press-patent company has since then been unable to enforce its contract with retailers.

CARRYING THRIFT TOO FAR

At what age should thrift be a virtue? asks a reporter who writes a chapter which states that children have deposited nearly ten million in school banks. Thrift is no fault trait. It is admirable, because in its large aspect it is the basis of capital accumulation; but in its small aspect it is a fault.

COOLIDGE'S FIRST PAPER RECEIVED

Continued From Page One) Agent, Representative Clark, Democrat of Florida, delivered the proceedings by adding and preventing that there were a lot of people on the floor who had no business there, while "wives of members holding tickets are helpless in the crush outside." He moved that the House floor be cleared of all persons not entitled to seats. The eyes and noses were called for and the eyes won. Sergeant at arms began an almost hopeless task of trying to obey the mandate. The outsiders were mostly clerks and secretaries to members, who by long custom have occupied the outer space in the chamber. Senate Files In At 12:15 the Senate files in, took control and of solemn mien. A joint committee was appointed to escort Mr. Coolidge to the chamber consisting of Senators Lodge, Robinson, Warren, Garner and Overman, and Representatives Longworth, Garrett, Madison, Garner and Green. There was a year of applause when Mr. Coolidge entered the chamber promptly at 12:30 p. m. Floor and galleries rose and clapped for several minutes. The Republican caucus in the chamber and the Democrats following with less solid following. The President was attired in conventional black of formal, which accentuates the natural palor of his face and the sandy shyness of his hair. Loss of Time He lost no time in plunging into his address. A pit could have been heard to fall in any part of the great chamber as he began to read slowly and with great distinctness to enunciate his policies. He read his address from several sheets of paper, making no gesture and striving for no oratorical effect. His left arm hung straight at his side, his right arm was crooked on the podium that held his papers. His hands were squarely together. Reference To League The first sound to break the solemn stillness of the chamber was an outburst of applause from the Republican side when Mr. Coolidge said that the United States had no intention of weakening its independence and influence in world affairs by joining the League of Nations. The Democrats were silent. They applauded lightly, however, a moment later when he "favorably commended" the World Court to the Senate with reservations.

N. Y. STATE WARS ON ALL QUACK DENTISTS

New York, Dec. 6.—New York State today officially opened war on quack dentists. Under direction of Attorney General Carl Sherman, and Dr. Minor J. Terry, secretary of the State Dental Board of Examiners, an investigation of all dentists throughout the state was begun today. Dr. Terry estimated 1,000 "fake dentists" were operating in New York City and an equal number in the state, Sherman said. Warrants would be issued for the arrest of these men. Dr. Terry declared the fake dentists were not "graduates" of a dental school, but operated with out even this formality. "Many are lawyers, laborers and clerks, without so much as a complete common school education," Dr. Terry said. "They purchase a few dental tools and rent an office to paying a heavy advance for give them fake treatment, for the week or a month, and then suddenly pull stakes and move away." Some patients have died from these treatments, Dr. Terry declared. CLIFFORD GORMAN HAS GONE TO KANSAS CITY Clifford Gorman of Local street left South Manchester this morning for Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Gorman has entered the employ of the Aetna Life Insurance Company of Hartford and they are sending him to Kansas City, where an opening occurred in their branch office in that city. Mr. Gorman will make a study of the insurance business and will endeavor to qualify himself for a position as manager of a branch office in the employ of that company. Mr. Gorman is a native of South Manchester, is a graduate of the South Manchester High School and of the Georgetown University. He served for several years in the office of the United States Shipping board at Washington. It will be seen by these presents that Mr. Gorman is eminently qualified to undertake the proposed studies which this new position will present to him. He has been a student constantly during the years of his boyhood and young manhood. Opportunities for advancement with the Aetna are many and are excellent. The field is large and broad and the heights to be reached are circumscribed mainly by the ability of the young men who enter their employ and make the most of the opportunities presented.

Fenn's Bill Asks $250,000 For Federal Building

Continued From Page One) The first bill submitted by Congressman Loring in 1912 asked for a $75,000 appropriation. This bill was cut from the omnibus Federal Building bill because, as the west came from Washington, it was an off year for New England public buildings. The next bill submitted by Congressman Oakley, in the 1914 session, would have passed because it was an "on year" for New England, but it did not pass for the fact that Mr. Oakley did not take the trouble to bolster his bill up with all the facts concerning postal business in Manchester. He consulted with the different post office in town and submitted the postal receipts of the Manchester post office only, disregarding the fact that the South Manchester post office was doing a $300,000 postal business at that time while Manchester office was doing about $100,000. Therefore the bill was considered a palpable case of "pork" as such as the Congressmen would not get out of the appropriation. In 1917, Mr. Loring gave out a bill for a $200,000 federal building in Manchester, but the war with Germany was on and federal building bills all went to the board. Mr. Fenn's bill would stand a good show of being put through, were it not for the present drive to economize on all appropriation projects in Washington. Another thing that will mitigate against the bill is the coming National Election, when appropriations for federal building, whether they be needed or not, would be put in a bad place so much good gun powder in the hands of the enemy.

SMILING BOB' BRIGGS PLEASES NORTH ENDERS

"Smiling Bob" Briggs, walked right into the hearts of many North End people last night. He gave a wonderful exhibition at the 8th District Assembly Hall before a large audience, which brought the elements that it might have opportunity to see this versatile young man. And "Smiling Bob" Briggs lived up to all the claims his press agent has made. As an entertainer extraordinary he has few equals. He gave several baritone solos and played his own piano accompaniments. As a humorist, craftsman, artist, and reader filled his difficult role to perfection. "Smiling Bob" has been in this work for the past four years and has always made good. When he first came on the stage he walked—just smiled. That smile was all one could see of him, and his lively chatter brought out the wonderful smile in full. He drew a cartoon of an ease with a piece of chalk. The picture looked like a Chinaman with a awful beard but Briggs turned the drawing upside down and let his grinning school again. This too revealed a very good and his characterization as a school boy was immense. Briggs certainly made good last night at the North End.

POLITICAL PRISONERS TO GET XMAS PARDONS

Washington, Dec. 6.—Christmas pardons to be granted by President Coolidge this year probably will include a number of Federal offenders who are listed as "political prisoners," it was learned today. The recommendations made by a special board created by the President to consider the merits of the political prisoner cases, are before Attorney General Daugherty and they are understood to be "liberal" in character. The specific nature of the recommendation of the board is not known for the Attorney General has not yet given personal study to the report of the board. There are certain cases, involving political prisoners which are regarded by the Presidential Board as deserving special consideration. These include those prisoners who have served the best part of their terms and are eligible for parole. The attorney general will make no announcement regarding the policy which may hereafter be adopted by the administration concerning political prisoners. It was said officially at the Department of Justice. Daugherty is known to be averse to any lifting of the bars against those who are held to have deliberately participated in campaigns for the use of force to destroy the government during the late war. There are other cases, however, in which the Attorney General may be willing to recommend clemency. It is the able man who is the miserable man.
