Macon, Ga., Feb. 14-Another -chapter in Macor's miraculous OMAHA HEIRESS WEDS medical operation was written here, when Dr. C. L. Pennington extracted a corroded wire nail, three inches in length, from the lower right lobe of little eight-year-old Frank Singletary's lungs. The nail was accidentally swallowed by the boy, according to his father nine months ago when they were bouncing along a rough road in a wagen. Since that time Frank has suffered continually with internal pains and fever, Lack of sufficient funds and a fear lest an operation prove fatal prevented an operation sooner. It required only two and one-half minutes for Dr. Pennington to perform the operation. An X-ray picture showed the nail headed downward between the fourth and seventh ribs, resting in the lower lobe. An anaesthetic was applied, $ a tube was inserted in the boy's throat, and delicate instruments soon brought the nail from his lung without even the laceration of the lungs or bronchial tubes.

Several hours after the operation the boy was declared out of danger. Happily at ease for the first time in nine months, he sat up in bed and talked with litt'e playmates who had called to see vernelle Head. Ounda's richest "Well, Dan, what is it?"
