LOYALTY THE TEST

Most persons who are happy have in them those eleints of steadfastness and conviction to which applied loyalty gives visible form. ever be much better equipped to fight our battles than we are Only obstinacy refuses to confess error and only vanity declines to admit defeat. Obstinacy and vanity are drags upon the chariot of progress. Unless we cut them loose we do not get very far. The same truth holds for the individual, the group, the community, the nation. History is replete with instances of heads battered against the impenetrable wall of unalterable fact, of fine causes lost by enthusiasts who clung tenaciously to original error, of cities stunted because they were too proud to change their habits, of nations wrecked upon the shoals of their selfish desire.

It is not enough merely to see ourselves as others see us. It is probable that others do not see us as we are, though their appraisal is likely to be more nearly accurate than our own when we are blinded by stubbornness and self-conceit. What is important is that our sole pride in opinion be a pride Washington, D. C.-Meet ment of committees.
