WHY BANKS?

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman, Bank deposits are broadly divided into two kinds

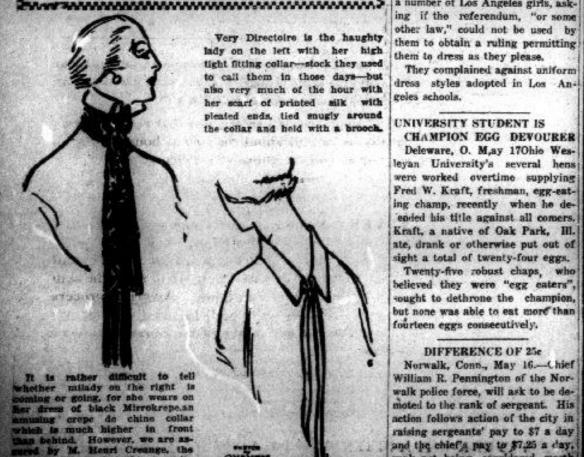

1. SAVINGS DEPOSITS

2. COMMERCIAL DEPOSITS SAVINGS DEPOSITS-deposits more or less permanent, in a savings bank or savings department of a bank, on which interest is paid, and which are withdrawn against the depositor's receipt; they in effect represent conservative investment of fun accumulated through personal thrift,

COMMERCIAL DEPOSITS=deposits in business account at a bank from which money is withdrawn by check; they rep-resent an essential facility for the conduct

Many persons and all business houses have checking ac counts in which to deposit the cash and checks which they receive and against which to draw their own checks to pay bills, wages and purchases. Thrifty people almost universally keep their savings in a savings account.

Several years ago a new, cheap, and highly efficient burgiar alarm for use in private residences was invented, put on the market and advertised in a small way for a brief period. After a few months the advertising ceased.

Recently the purchaser of a new house desiring to protect himself against the depredations of thieves, bethought text himself against the depredations of thieves, bethought larglar alarm for use in private residences was invented, him of aforementioned device, of which he had a lingering memory, and visited a dozen hardware stores in search of it. The article in question is, as we have said, efficient, and is superentible of a wide variety of uses. It is dead for lack is susceptible of a wide variety of uses. It is dead for lack of advertising. Why the maker gave up after a feeble effort at publicity we do not know; but we suspect that he lacked the faith and perseverance that must back the introduction of every brand-new idea.

Perseverance in advertising is not necessarily costly. A very small appropriation will keep a modest enterprise before the public for a whole year if small space in good newspapers is used.

The successful advertisers are those who proportion their investment to the requirements of their business, and keep everlastingly at it.

THE WIDE, WIDE WORLD

Do not be distressed overmuch by news of evil. This is a wide, wide world. It contains much that is bad, but more that is good. Righteousness is slowly, but surely, triumphing over sin.

If you do not believe that, or merely have not realized it, turn for a moment to contemplation of happier things. Turn your tired eyes from the day's record of evil to the golden roll of honor. There is more of good news than of had news today, every day. There is more to see on the sunny side, and it is more worth seeing.

There are only two reasons for gazing at ugly things; either that we may more fully know evil when we meet it even in gilded robes; or that we may grapple with it and

The book is perhaps the greatest bombshell thrown into the athletic world in a generation. The author further states that millions of children are each year getting strained hearts and weakened lungs from the systems of calisthenics now in use in the schools, and that in certain cases operations have been necessary to relieve the digestive ills caused by these systems. He adds that men should be able, through the dily practice of these five minute experiences at the Daily Five Minservices to his countrymen.
