Profit to the Buyer It is Bound Up in the Finer Quality of Hupmobile Parts

For the very heart and soul of Hupmobile success is the way it stands up—year after year—at astonishing low cost.

Let it try to cheapen any of its finely built parts and it would at once lose that superiority. So in the end, it would not profit the buyer.

The motor car question, as we see it, comes down to this: Hupmobile can pay the Hupmobile price, say in the assurance that a higher price cannot bring him anything higher than the Hupmobile in honest quality.

Or, he can pay less and content himself with less than Hupmobile quality and satisfaction. It will cost you nothing but the time you put in, to compare the assurance that a higher price cannot bring him anything higher than the Hupmobile in honest quality.

It is not because we have no men that another girl or woman knows of error, but because we do not declare that we have, that we make a little use of truth.

Speaking of "bobbed hair" makes me think of a salesman in the office the other day. He boastfully said that he told his sister that if she had her hair bobbed, he would divorce her.

Designers are busily engaged in selecting what "new women" will wear for Fall and already have decided that pleated details will abound the fall collections.

Quite the newest thing in underwear are the radium slippers which the Vogue is featuring in all colors.

At the moment, the bridal set is favored by the smart woman, who, for there are any number of reasons, "Oh, how do you do the look?"

CIRCUS DAY.
Circus day is here again. If the town kiddies could only know the country children would envy them, if they only knew of their sophistication about circuses and circus events they would want to go out into the highways and byways and bring their country cousins in to participate in the happy events of circus day.

'GOOD TIMES' CONTINUE.
The proverb "Where there is smoke there must be fire" obviously does not apply to the talk of panic now heard on the streets. Street conversation is usually the "smoke" of the accident or condition, but in this instance there appears to be only a whiff of smoke and no fire.

A few weeks ago we asked for five million dollars to help them in their calamity when they had a bad earthquake. We have spoiled the effect of this good action, for we got eleven million through the Red Cross which has been sent them, because we were browbeaten by the race haters of California.

War comes from very little causes on the surface. Anything will do as a pretext. The mass of the German people still believe they were innocent and that the French and English were aggressors. This complex of fear and racial superiority is being carefully cultivated by the French in their dealings with Germany and contains the seed of the next war, if there is to be any, just as soon as Germany is ready.

There is likely to be a lack of freight and staves during the planetary year, the tendency being toward speculation of an unwise character.

There is a light fire in some places heretofore yesterday morning. The Illinois degree team worked the third and fourth degrees in the evening at the Congregational church held at a service, which will be held at ten o'clock the evening of Friday night.

Joseph Cooper followed with a talk on Memorial Day in all parts of the country. The High School baseball team is playing Weaver High of Hartford in that place this afternoon. On Saturday afternoon we return to Manchester for a victory parade.

California is doing its best to sow the seed of another war on the part of the United States. And California has able allies in the present House and Senate.

The leaders of the Japanese nation are fortunately gentlemen and treat the whole matter with a contempt which the issue merits. But, unfortunately, neither the Japanese people nor the people of the United States are all gentlemen.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE
Tomorrow's observance of Memorial Day in Coventry will center about the community service under the direction of a committee of the Ready Helpers' Society at 10 a. m. in the Second Congregational Church. To a special children's program in the various district schools at their usual hour of assembly, following flowers, wild and cultivated, with which to cover the graves of war veterans in the three cemeteries of the North District, transcribing these under their respective names to the church, bringing their garlands with them, Patriotic songs will be sung by the congregation and by the school children separately. The latter will also recite recitations, two numbers of the program being contributed by each of the five schools. Lincoln's Gettysburg address will be read, and the pastor, Rev. G. E. Richter, will deliver a brief address, after which the pupils will proceed to designated cemeteries to cover the graves. It had been hoped that one of town speakers could be secured, but although several efforts were made by the committee to secure such a speaker, in almost every case local celebrities were being planned which the speakers felt should require their presence at home.

There are but two Civil War veterans remaining in this district, Edwin Austin and Edward Kline, and these two old soldiers will be the guests of their fellowmen, and may be prevailed upon to relate some of their experiences. In the evening in Chapel Hall, the young people of the community are engaged in a good time, the Christian Endeavor Society has planned a program appropriate to the season, and will be preceded by a brief assembly business meeting of the society, postponed from last week.

REV. G. E. RICHTER PREACHES
An earnest plea for a deeper interest in the great foreign missionary program of the Christian Church was voiced last Sunday morning in the Second Congregational Church by its pastor, Rev. G. E. Richter, who used the text 1 Cor. 9: 2, "We are laborers together with God" as the basis of his plea for what he called "The Greatest Task in the World." The preacher stated that great though the creative work of God in fashioning the world, His habitation, His gifts, and His love, that of bringing the rebellious inhabitants of His world into right relationship with Him through the conscious use of sin and acceptance of the salvation made possible by the sacrifice on Calvary's cross, and that in this mighty task the Almighty had selected humanity as His co-workers, that without human agency its success cannot be achieved.

Mr. Richter argued that personal salvation is a small matter in God's sight, that the individual is saved only that he may become a factor in the divine scheme and busy himself at once with the great task in an effort to bring others into the knowledge of Jesus Christ. Multitudes, he reminded his hearers, were Jesus' law for the progress of His Kingdom—thirty fold, sixty fold or a hundred fold. The theme of the old song "Meet I'll, and amply handed," he maintained was an erroneous one—"anyone who goes to the gate of Heaven empty-handed, in my opinion, will not get in," he declared. He then proceeded to show that while the development of individual character is but a part in the divine scheme, and the influence may have upon their fellows is the next part, even this is but a part of the divine plan. The true Christian must be honestly interested in the program of world wide missions, he insisted, first because it is a part of God's own plan for the work of men, second because of the blessings which the uncomprehending cannot know, and for which deprivation of the church at home is responsible, and finally because of the order benefits which accrue to the Christian who is a missionary enthusiast. Those in foreign lands, he said, not only in the material benefits which come to the believer, but in educational, cultural, industrial, economic and other opportunities which benefit the individual wherever the gospel is preached by any considerable number of people. But the one who neglects the work of evangelism, he said, may have greater benefits than he realizes, something that he may have an spiritual opportunity, and the promise of God's Kingdom, and he pointed out that God's Kingdom is not a matter of money and power, but of the spirit.

THE PARSONAGE DOOR
Last Monday night a group of local young people (with just a few of the older ones for good measure) surprised Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Richter at the parsonage, leaving a mammoth "May basket" at their door and then serenading them with song in which their good feeling toward their pastor and wife was joyously expressed with a couple of friends after a late supper near the end of an unusually exciting evening for it was the day when the Ford automobile which the young people had helped Mr. Richter secure as a prize winner in the New England Automobile Contest had arrived from the dealer in Hartford. When engaged in humbler tasks the "May basket" is a basket of flowers, but it had hardly looked its part when prettily covered with pink crepe paper and apparently filled with flowers, branches laden with blossoms. It was not until after their guests had departed that Mr. and Mrs. Richter discovered that it was not only a fragrant and beautiful tribute of the affection in which they are held, but that beneath the blossoms were numerous packages of staple groceries, etc. to help replenish the pantry shelves.

After host and hostess had regaled themselves with the refreshments, the young people had crowded into the house the parson only succeeded in catching one of the girls and claiming the customary reward—and she was just a little girl! Various games were enjoyed, followed by light refreshments, crackers and orangeade. The parsonage folks have tried to express their appreciation of this kindly compliment, but declare that upon such occasions words are too limited to express their real feelings.

Friends of the young people of Coventry will miss them very much as both are members of the Second Congregational church, and all of all its young people's organizations. They also have done their part as Grangers.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fluke spent Sunday in North Windham, the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Schell and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Vinton. Lester Hill of Rockville spent Sunday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Newell A. Hill. Little Miss Marie, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pickin, made her first trip to church last Sunday morning, and was a most quiet and exemplary member of the congregation. The minister is a great lover of children, and said that he not only hoped that little Marie would become a regular attendant but that other parents would also bring their children, however young, with them to the services.

A number of people of this section were guests last Friday night of Miss Gladys Orrett at the retreat of the Normal School Church at Willimantic under the direction of Miss Gladys Orrett at the retreat of the Normal School Church at Willimantic. The program was splendidly directed and delightfully rendered by Miss Orrett who has not yet attained her 18th birthday, will be graduated from the Normal School next month, and has already received appointment as teacher of 3rd and 4th grades in the Oak school of Willimantic, which is associated with the Normal as a practice school, and as such Miss Gladys will be included as one of the faculty of her alma mater next year. Among local people present were Franklyn E. Orrett, Miss Lillian Wheeler, Lloyd Ayer, Miss Lillian Ayer, Mrs. Walter S. Hayes, Miss Camilla Nelson, Mrs. A. G. Walbridge, Mrs. Newell A. Hill, Byron W. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Vinton, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Schell, Mrs. Henry L. Barnes, Miss Laura Kingsbury, Henry Schell, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gowdy, and Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Richter.

THE EXPERT'S VIEW
A green trimmer was told to put a piece of insulating subway up the window and mark it "Sheraton." He thought he would improve on his instructions. Knowing nothing about furniture, he marked it "Flue Mahogany—Sheraton."

HUNG MAY BASKET AT
Last Monday night a group of local young people (with just a few of the older ones for good measure) surprised Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Richter at the parsonage, leaving a mammoth "May basket" at their door and then serenading them with song in which their good feeling toward their pastor and wife was joyously expressed with a couple of friends after a late supper near the end of an unusually exciting evening for it was the day when the Ford automobile which the young people had helped Mr. Richter secure as a prize winner in the New England Automobile Contest had arrived from the dealer in Hartford. When engaged in humbler tasks the "May basket" is a basket of flowers, but it had hardly looked its part when prettily covered with pink crepe paper and apparently filled with flowers, branches laden with blossoms. It was not until after their guests had departed that Mr. and Mrs. Richter discovered that it was not only a fragrant and beautiful tribute of the affection in which they are held, but that beneath the blossoms were numerous packages of staple groceries, etc. to help replenish the pantry shelves.

THE LIFE OF THE HOUSE
depends almost entirely upon your judgment—in paint. Your floor or buildings will last just as long as the outer surface of "skin." Protect the "skin" both inside and outside—with good paint—and you protect all. We carry GOOD PAINTS, let us estimate.

Uncle Wiggly's Adventures

THE JUNE BUG IS A FUNNY CHAP, HE NEVER NEEDS TO WEAR A CAP. HIS LEGS ARE ROUGH AND FULL OF KINKS. WHEN DANGER COMES HE NEVER SHRINKS.

Text by HOWARD R. GARIS
Illustrated by LANG CAMPBELL

1. Once a big June Bug flew in Uncle Wiggly's bungalow. Nurse Jane caught up a tennis racket. "What are you going to do?" asked the rabbit. "Kill that moth!" squeaked the mistral. "That isn't a moth," laughed Uncle Wiggly. "He is a June Bug; don't hurt him." Nurse Jane said: "Oh, excuse me," and the June Bug buzzed: "Thank you for saving me, Uncle Wiggly. Please take me adventuring with you."

2. "That's a good idea!" said the rabbit. "Come, my June Bug friend, we'll travel together and look for adventures." Starting down the road, the June Bug buzzed on ahead. All of a sudden the bug bumped into Aunt Lettie. "Baa-a-a!" bleated the goat lady. "Dear me!" cried the bunny. "Beg pardon!" buzzed the bug. "This must not happen again," said Uncle Wiggly. "Stay closer to me, June Bug."

3. The June Bug said: "I cannot fly as slowly as you hop, Uncle Wiggly, so how can I stay close to you?" The rabbit twiddled his pink nose and spoke, saying: "Still it must be done. I can't have you bumping into goat ladies. I know what I can do: I'll pull you in a little cart." So a little cart was made for the June Bug to ride in. "Oh, how cute!" said Baby Bunty, who came hopping through the woods.

4. Baby Bunty hopped softly along after Uncle Wiggly, who was drawing the June Bug in the cart. She did not see the bug. "I'll jump in the cart and surprise Uncle Wiggly," laughed Baby Bunty. So she did. The June Bug flew out just in time. Uncle Wiggly was surprised--so was Baby Bunty. "She didn't think the cart would break." "This is the second time my life has been saved!" buzzed the bug.

5. "Dear me, Baby Bunty, why did you do this?" cried Uncle Wiggly. "I didn't mean to," sobbed Baby Bunty. "I didn't see anybody in the cart." The bunny said as the cart was broken he would make a wheelbarrow for the bug. "Then I can keep my eyes on him," said the rabbit. Finishing the wheelbarrow, they started. All of a sudden the Bear shuffled out of the woods. "Now's my chance!" he growled.

6. After seeing Uncle Wiggly, the Bear shuffled back into the woods until he met the Fox. "This time I shall catch the rabbit!" growled the Bear. "How?" asked the Fox. "By this trick," laughed the Bear, lying on the ground. "I will pretend to be a log. Uncle Wiggly will bump the wheelbarrow into me, he will upset and I shall catch him." The Fox said that was a good trick. "I'll help you," said the Fox.

7. The Bear told the Fox to hide in the woods. "I'll go down to the path, pretend to be a log in the way, and Uncle Wiggly will upset over me," said the Bear. "When he does, you call the Bob Cat and Wolf and we'll have a party." The bunny wheeled the barrow into the Bear. But the June Bug flew out and bit the Bear on his paw. "Wow!" howled the Bear, standing on his head. "This is fun!" buzzed the Bug.

8. The June Bug bit the Bear so hard that the bad chap ran away. "Oh, I am so bumped I can't get up!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggly. "Here comes the Fox, the Wolf and the Bob Cat to nibble us!" said Baby Bunty. But just then through the air the June Bug cried: "I am coming to save you, Uncle Wiggly, with 10,000 other June Bugs!" They flew with a net of strong cob webs. "Hop in!" they buzzed.

9. You catch Baby Bunty!" cried the Fox to the Bob Cat. "The Wolf and I will take Uncle Wiggly, and we'll carry them to the Bear's den." But the June Bug flew swiftly along with the cobweb net. "Hold fast, Uncle Wiggly and Baby Bunty!" cried the June Bug. "We'll save you!" So the rabbits were carried safely away in the net. "Curry!" howled the Fox, the Bob Cat and the Wolf. "Fooled again!"

And if the ink bottle doesn't drink a lot of milk to try and turn white like an angel cake, the next picture and story will be about UNCLE WIGGLY IN THE WOODS.
