CRIME IS A DISEASE

A striking case of kleptomania occurred in Chicago recently. The wife of a millionaire was arrested for stealing. She lived in a palatial home, and had maids and butlers and other servants to wait upon her. She had no need for money, as her husband willingly supplied all she could reasonably spend, even for luxuries. But a strange impulse obsessed her. She applied for a position as a maid in a strange household and was accepted because of her refined appearance. This she did at several places. In each instance she looted the house during the absence of the family and carried the things away in her own automobile. A neighbor woman saw the maid going away with the sedan full of plunder and notified her employer. The kleptomaniac was arrested, and at police headquarters she broke down and confessed.

The woman was forty-four years old and had four children of her own. Her husband, although dazed by the shock of seeing his wife a kleptomaniac, hurried to her side and declared that he would stand by her. This incident is full of instruction for those who are capable of learning. It emphasizes the truth that crime is a disease to be cured and not an act which calls for retribution.

In such a case we already acknowledge its pathological character by giving it a medical name; kleptomania. We are recognizing that it is a mental disorder, something to be healed, rather than a crime. In former ages anyone who stole would have been seized and afflicted with more or less cruelty.

Little by little the world is learning that vengeance, punishment and retaliation cure nothing. Kerosene will not put out a fire. This unfortunate woman, surrounded by the protection of her husband and her loyal friends, will probably be treated by scientific means in a hospital or elsewhere until her affliction is removed.

She is not only unfortunate, but also very fortunate, for there are thousands of other lawbreakers who have no such friends, who are seized upon by the agents of society, haled into court, thrown into prison and treated with every form of harshness as enemies to be punished, and not as criminals to be cured. Some day or other we are going to get the normal, sane and healthy view in regard to all crime.

FUTURE POWER DEVELOPMENT.

O. C. Merrill, secretary of the Federal Power Commission, says the characteristic feature of our future power development will be systems of interconnected, interdependent generating stations with their transmission lines covering a vast area—superpower systems—as contrasted with the isolated stations supplying only the needs of the immediate neighborhood.

The development of superpower systems is making possible a much greater use of our water powers, with a consequent saving of fuel, says Mr. Merrill. "These systems afford the very conditions under which water powers can be most effectively operated."

STEPS BY THE TELEPHONE.

The average number of telephone calls in one of our largest cities during 1923 was 3,250,000 daily. That is an average of more than one call for every day for every man, woman and child in this city.

Some statistics are interesting. Think of the enormous number of steps that are saved by telephone calls. Saving all one step means lessening the wear and tear on thousands of human beings.

HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, JULY 13, 1924
 Jupiter in benefic aspect dominates this day, according to astrologers. The Sun and Saturn are mildly adverse. The Mercury influence today are stimulating to men and women who have to success in life, even they should be cautious in making visits. The Sun is in an aspect to certain planets making for the spirit of criticism among friends and especially when the friends are no longer young. During this rule it is wise indeed to keep one's plans secret and to pursue business as of thought as well as action. The young man started in pro-

MID-SUMMER MADNESS

Trade should become fairly normal at this time, although there may be some hoarding of money. The Pope should safeguard his health all through the summer, for he will suffer from the effects of malediction currents. Art may be more and more submerged by commerce in all parts of Europe, the stars foretell, while the United States comes to a realization of the four stages of life. Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a prosperous year, if they attend strictly to business. Those who are employed should be especially diligent, however. Children born on this day may be irritable and headstrong but these subjects of Cancer usually know how to succeed in this life. Girls available will marry early.

MONDAY, JULY 14, 1924
 Good and evil planetary influences contend today, according to astrologers. A forecast of millions of dollars in a benefic aspect, Uranus is adverse. There is a fortunate sign for all who start on journeys and ocean trips should be especially successful if begun under this planetary government.

Oil is again subject to the best possible planetary directions and new discoveries to be forecast. First in order to become a matter of deep interest through some novel invention which will be exploited in the autumn. Saturn writes today to farmers and all who till the soil. They are to gain through access to political power as well as through investment in market policies.

Real estate will continue to be profitable; speculators in certain western states and there is a good sign for the national campaign. Uranus is in an aspect interesting to lovers who may be fed up with each other. Women may be peculiarly vain under this day. Shipping disasters are foreboded on the part of a foreign power. The United States government moves with an accident.

A cabinet minister may be involved in some grave misunderstanding on the part of a foreign power. American diplomats are object to a planetary government making for much anxiety and extraordinary responsibility. The appointment of a woman in a high place in the diplomatic or consular service is prophesied. Persons whose birthdate it is probably will benefit greatly this year. The coming year should bring many pleasant surprises.

Children born on this day have the augury of lives in which their paths are smooth by many helpful associates. These subjects of Cancer often inherit fortunes from relatives.

WAGES BUSINESS MEN TO WRITE

E. W. Howe, a New York business writer, says many years ago I read a book by Andrew Carnegie, entitled "Triumphant Democracy," and have since regarded it as one of the best I read. Mr. Carnegie, as a Scotch immigrant boy found rewards for industry and character as liberal in the United States than he long ranked as our greatest.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

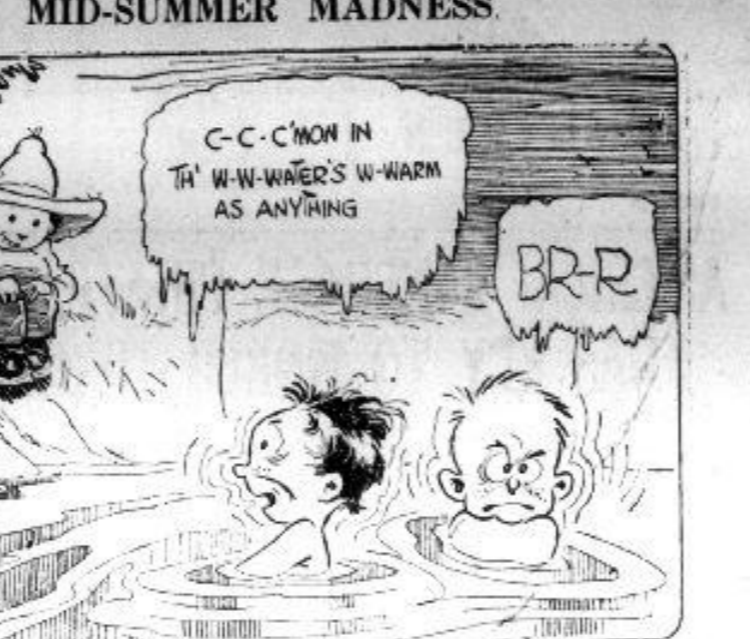

BY HARRY B. HUNT
 NEW YORK, N. Y.—Political bosses are a human sort of folk, despite all the mean things that are said about them. Doubtless it is the human element in their composition that wins them the following which is essential to their success. He said the successful boss rules through the local authority of his barbers rather than through his own.

This George Brennan, carpenter of the district democracy of Chicago, Brennan, the local boss, is a man who might double for a political John Bull. His family expenses have a way of reaching themselves about him that show in quite startlingly and his voice, swelling from his lips like the wind, fills the air with the words of John Bull.

He had his eyes on the position of ward leader which he felt was his right, and which he felt kindly side to Brennan that quite belied his title and his looks. One of his young ward workers, who had been doing some work for the organization in a school, came to him one day and told him that Brennan had just found this out quite to his surprise.

HIS LAST WORDS
 Valleyfield, July 12.—Walter Mair, American boy who was languishing today, went to the hospital with his mother looking on, a little in her hand that he had written. "I'm a heart-broker, mother. My poor, poor mother, how you must be suffering since my death. You must be brave and remember that I have died a good Christian and in the state of grace. All ways think of me as I will be able to join me in heaven. It was the will of God that I should leave this earth at this time. I am dying a very happy boy. I love you madly with all my heart, and will pray to God always for you. Good-bye, mother, dear, and May God bless you." "Never lend a gun to a man who leads an aimless existence."
