CLASS PROPHECY

Welcome to the Cherry Blossom Festival—April 1969

Time for a reunion! The date is now April 1969. Can it be that ten years have passed since we left Barnard Junior High??

Our committee considered many places to hold this big event. Finally, we all decided upon going to Washington to the Cherry Blossom Festival. Why this choice? A little bird had told us that a number of our classmates were going to attend this affair and that some others had become very famous in this part of the country.

Much had to be done before our big trip. We started by going to the famous fashion house, House of Elegance. Gorgeous dresses were being modeled there by none other than that famous person, Anne Lessner! Just then, the creator of these beautiful dresses walked in. She was Bonnie Towson, another Barnard classmate! And we hadn't even started our trip!

We couldn't stay as long as we wanted at the House of Elegance because we had to go to the hairdresser for a new creation. We had appointments with that famous hair-stylist and old friend, Pam Dermerchant. She gave us a beautiful styling, but we had to leave in a hurry to buy our plane tickets.

At the clerk's desk we met yet another classmate, Marcia Rossister, who was also buying a ticket to go to Washington.

This had been quite a day. We had already met four acquaintances from Barnard without even going to Washington!

The next day we packed our baggage and set out for the airport. Very shortly we heard "Ladies and gentlemen, your attention please! All passengers on Flight 59 please report to Gate 8."

Much to our surprise, as we boarded the plane we were met by Carol Moore and Ruth Andrews, airline hostesses and pilots Tom Jacobson, John Zak and Ray McCarthy. We spent several minutes before plane take-off discussing old times.

We started out safely on our plane trip, but nearing Washington it developed engine trouble. All the passengers became panicky but the stewardesses told us we would soon land in the Washington Airport. As we got out of the plane, we became very curious as to what had happened. Then we saw the pilots and hostesses coming toward us. Upon telling them of our curiosity they immediately took us to the mechanics working on the plane. We quickly recognized them as former classmates, Tom Edwards, Armand Rouiland, and Carl Rohrback. They told us that one engine had gone dead but it was nothing to worry about. We then chatted awhile but they had to get back on their schedule. Leaving by taxi we were then taken to the Trotter Hotel.

After settling ourselves in very deluxe rooms we went to the hotel dining room. While there we met such famous personalities as Cynthia Post, who has won more "Oscars" in her short career than anyone has in a lifetime; Jeff Pond, the world renowned bagpiper player, and Bob Sales, Jim Smith and Jeff Sinon, rock-and-roll singers.

The next day we went sightseeing at the famous Lincoln Memorial and met Barry Bennett there. Chatting awhile we learned he was now a lawyer. Why, when we heard from him last, he was going to be a doctor, but he seems to have made a name for himself in this field.

Leaving the beautiful monuments, we got a bite to eat and headed toward the avenue where the big Cherry Blossom Parade was to be held. We got there just as the parade was coming into view. The first float carried the queen, Marie Skinner, and her court, Lynne La Pointe, Marge Koblinsky, Diane Pillard, Babs Gustafson, Ellen Firestone, Donna Valente and Kathy Barber. The beautiful gowns worn by the queen and her court were designed by Diana Dyber.

Following, was the world famous Barnard Band of '59. Seen among the fabulous band were Steve Morrison, Sandy Huri, Marty Chmielecki, Maryanne Kovalcek, and Lynne Ferris.

We had thought we would see a few Barnard classmates taking part in the festival but this was better than we had ever expected!

We were in for an even bigger surprise, for just then, the Barnard Varsity, Doug Pearson, Don Simmons, Fred McCurry, John McNeill, George May, Jerry Misiretta, Craig Phillips, Todd Potter, Jeff Tybur and Jeff Gentilcore, came dribbling down the avenue of Cherry Blossoms. They were immediately followed by the spectacular cheerleaders who could be heard from far and near yelling their famous cheers. Among the cheerleaders we could see were Jane Abild, Pat Provost, Jane Scruttin, Cathy Arthur, and Barbara LaMire.

Following the cheerleaders, came the medical float. Among the surgeons, doctors and nurses we were surprised and happy to see Terry Neil, Joe Prignano, James Barry, Don Besser, Betty Britton, Margaret Gervais, Cheryl Staninas, and Barbara Uricchio.

Another of our former classmates, Laurie Davis, had opened a very fashionable model agency which sponsored a beautiful float carrying such glamorous models as Sue Abraitis, Ann Ritchie, Betty Bostick, Nancy Eagleson and Jean Streng.

Next, along the line of march, came a float sponsored by the fabulous Lutz Museum and featuring such world renowned artists as Mike Laurentano, Tom McVeigh, Jackie McCarthy and Philip Zapadka. We were very pleased to find that these classmates had reached their goal as artists.

The Connecticut Board of Education featured a float which held those wonderful teachers—many who had said teaching would be their goal—Jill Messenger, Arline Shennig, Connie Gallo, Marti Turner, Joan Anderson, and Paula Wupperfield.

Many more beautiful floats passed, and we soon learned that there was a prize for the most beautiful of them all. Very soon a hush came over the crowd and all eyes turned on one person. Very pleased and surprised to see him, we recognized the President of the United States, Harry Huntington. After giving a short speech, he presented the prize to Laurie Davis' beautiful fashion float.

Just then we saw coming toward us the President's secretary, Melody Weir. Very happy to see her, we chatted awhile.

It was now time for us all to meet at the famous Corrighoni Restaurant. This was to be our one big banquet where we would meet in a complete group. It was indeed a happy occasion to greet each other and find that most of us had attained our goals or, at least, were well on our way in that direction.

Commenting on the delicious food, we asked who the chef was. We soon learned it was Marc Squatrito, an old classmate! Just then the orchestra started to play. Why, its leader, we were happy to hear, was Ken Woods, and it featured Christine Kilpatrick as the pianist, Preston Trumbly, the second Benny Goodman, Frank Maloney at the drums and Ginny Gilber as the singer. The evening finished in a whirl of talk and laughter. We sadly said goodby to one another, knowing that in some cases, this might be the last time we would see one another.

The next few days were crammed full of gaity and excitement, and seemed to fly by with startling rapidity. But we regretfully had to turn our faces homeward with a few keepsakes and our wonderful memories of the fabulous Cherry Blossom Festival made much more memorable in our thoughts by our meetings with so many of our Barnard Junior High schoolmates.

A BACKWARD GLANCE FROM THE GATEWAY . . .

CLASS HISTORY

On September 9, we entered grade seven,
We thought a big school would be like heaven.
We knew that we'd have lots of fun,
But found a lot of work to be done.
The annual Open House came next
We showed our parents our work from our text.
On the faculty-pupil basketball game
Faculty won! Baseball the same.
We knew the school dances would be lots of fun,
But we couldn't go 'till our homework was done.
We had vacations, to be sure;
But they were so short—we wished we had more.
Our dramatic club put on several plays
And helped liven up our duller days.
Summer vacation came at last
But it seemed so short. How quickly it passed!
Suddenly, back in Barnard again;
Doing homework with our friends.
It's early December and starting to snow,
Christmas will be here before we know.
Alack and alas, Mr. Johnson has left,
But, we suppose, he knows the best.
Christmas vacation had come and passed,
So back to school we went at last.
On Valentine's Day we had a Hop,
And some of the teachers learned how to bop.
We had basketball games, and bowling, too,
And the winners' ego grew and grew.
The Spring Hop really was a "ball"
With lots of fun for one and all.
Then finally came Graduation Day,
And everyone looked bright and gay.
But then, there was a sad point, too—
We were leaving our friends, so dear and true.
Alas, we say with a hearty sigh,
"Goodbye, Barnard Junior High, goodbye."

GATEWAY SPORTS REVIEW

This year, Barnard Junior High School's students have been very active in sports. There have been many contests between schools and among the pupils.

In basketball, our entire Varsity should receive credit for their outstanding record of five out of six wins. Among the leading scorers were George May, Doug Pearson, John McNeil, Don Simmons, and Mac McCurry. The outstanding players on the Girls' Varsity were Linda Foster, Gloria Trukas, Karen Mitchell, Sue Boris, Joanne Williams and Judy McAuley.

We have also had intramural volleyball games. The winner of this tournament was the team of 8T consisting of Doug Pearson, Joe Prignano, Jim Smith, Charlotte Stence, Joanne Lucas, Roberta Steurer, and Ann Frankovitch.

Bowling was another sport that held great interest. Jim Smith and Joel Kehler were the champions of the eighth grade.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to Mr. Kelley, Miss Lind, Mrs. Romancier, Mr. Warren, and Mr. Edmondson for their help in coaching the teams as well as acting as officials.
