MR. BRADLAU

Is Bennet a better place because you were here? You have covered many miles moving from experience to experience in our school this past year and the contributions of many have made welcome changes in you. You act and feel older and are more knowledgeable, just to mention a few.

Changes other than those that occurred to pupils have taken place also. A school is a dynamic institution that is never exactly the same two days in a row. The differences from year to year are striking and are always the result of the thought and action of people.

A school's pupils are the nucleus of change. Developments engineered by adults are pupil centered as are those resulting directly from pupil interaction.

We who are semi-permanently associated with Bennet are grateful for the high standards that have evolved here due to the unselfish contributions of many adults and pupils. Can you recall the year's experiences and feel the pride the other contributors to Bennet's respected reputation feel?

MR. CONE

This Argus will long be treasured by many of you as a memento of your days at Bennet Junior High School. It records for you pictures of your classmates, your teachers and your enjoyable events. It also records something of your activities and achievements, especially in your ninth grade year as leaders in the school.

It is your participation and achievements in school activities that deserve some special recognition at this time since it is through these functions that we get to know many of you especially well. We always enjoy sharing a little of the success that many of you receive as leaders or as exceptionally talented individuals in a particular field of endeavor. Each of us on the staff at Bennet take great pride in your success and we do so knowing that for most of you this is but the beginning of many successes.

Your leadership role this year has been an especially important one for you and for the school. We hope it will serve as a springboard for many, many fine years yet to come. We have enjoyed having you stop with us for these three years at Bennet and we invite you to return and visit us as you continue your education at other schools.

The Argus staff proudly dedicates the "67" edition to the following teachers whose devotion to their profession has made them worthy of this honor.

TO MRS. MILLER:

Her qualities as an outstanding teacher of English has equipped us with the necessary skills to further our educational goals.

TO MR. DOOMAN:

His insistence that we continue to improve our physical development has resulted in a personal challenge from which we have all benefited.

TO MRS. DOREMUS:

Her desire that we improve our mathematical background has instilled in us an attitude of deep appreciation for her efforts.
