After the four thousand mile trip to my new home, I still hadn't travelled half way. I still had to keep stepping. And when I returned my experience had only half passed. I was faced with communicating feelings by senseless words. I would say, "AFS is . . ." but how does one explain being a member of a universal family; the growth, trust, and genuine love that develop from the confrontation between culture and culture, race and race, creed and creed, individual and self.

"Confrontation is commonplace; understanding remains elusive." Yet by listening to peoples, accepting differences as an opportunity for enrichment and sharing of selves, one can pass through confrontation with greater understanding.

AFS has fine ideals that give one the chance to crystalize his own. In return for his chance, he offers what he has to sill others.

Chris Bensen

This was the great chance in my life, to travel to the United States and to spend one year here. Of course I had dreams (who hasn't any!) about the life here but its reality has outdone my expectations. After many wonderful experiences I realize now what is behind these three letters — AFS. It is not only the great organization but the spirit of everybody who is involved and gives time and effort that students from all over the world can have the chance to live in a foreign country. That was the center of attraction for me, to live with my family, my friends, the daily life and become a part of it. This was one of the great experiences during my year in Manchester and it will not be finished when the year is over. It will last. And there is a part of me that will always belong to Manchester and to my friends, but especially to my wonderful family who made this year a happy, unique, and unforgettable one for me.

I hope that during the coming years I will still have contact with Manchester. I hope I can meet many of you one day in Switzerland. I am looking forward to it! You have a friend in Switzerland who will always remember this year in Manchester.

I'd say I "happened" here, instead of Manchester happened in my life, because it already was a beloved town for me and my family for all it gave and represented to my sister Tê when she was here as an AFS student. But since my arrival I've learned to love it more because now Manchester is not only something nice to think about, it is in my eyes (I've always been overcome by the color of the trees in autumn and the beauty of the snow), it's in my blood (can you imagine the hot Latin's blood threatened by New England's winter?), and it's in my heart in which I'll have forever impressed my family here and all you, my friends, who being so nice, warm, and understanding, will make this year an unforgettable part of my life, showing that we still have enough place for love in our world. For all of you, I only have a word: "obrigado"! And any time you feel like lying on a beach under a tropical sun come to Brazil, Bahia, Salvador and you'll find a friend who'll be very glad to have you there anytime. (Be sure and go!)

Aninha Oliva

What an opportunity to come and live in a foreign country. This year in MHS has been something special to me. I have met so many nice friends and understanding teachers and I promise I'll never forget any of you. Isn't it great that people from different corners of the world can talk and laugh about the same things! I wish every one of you could have this experience.

Have you met my crazy sister Joan? We have had so much fun together.
