While I write this, there are still four months left before I go home. There is so much I want to do and see before I leave, so many places I want to go to that I wish I had another year. You wouldn't believe how fast a year can go when you do something new. While all my friends wish that summer and graduation could come fast so they can "get out of here," I wish I could slow down the time.

When I came here with YFU last summer I thought everything would be so easy, but I learned very quickly that was wrong. It is not easy to leave your home for a year to live in a foreign country. It is not easy to come into a whole new family that might have different values and interests than you. It is not easy to leave all your friends behind you and know that when you come back they might not be the "same" old friends, because both you and they have changed, and many times in different directions. But that is the chance you take and I will never regret my choice, because my year here in Manchester with my family, friends and teachers at MHS has been great. I have learned a lot about you and your country. Even if it was just a year, I think it has been one of the most important parts of my lifetime. Thanks, everybody. It's going to be sad to leave. I will never forget you. I'll see you again.

In the summer of 1977 I had the privilege of going to Spain. I lived in Ejea, a small agricultural town of about 10,000 people. My family consisted of my parents, two brothers, a sister and my grandmother. This was a very different experience for me and one that will effect my life every day. As I grew closer to my new family and friends I learned that people are the same everywhere. We all want the same things from life wherever it is that we live. We all want happiness with different traditions and customs.

Adjusting to these new cultural differences was difficult, but handling these challenges with the help of my family brought me closer to the people around me. I will always cherish the wonderful times I spent in Spain and the lasting friendships I made. This was probably the most beneficial experience I've ever had as it affected me and all the Spaniards I encountered. Traveling abroad is an education in itself and one I would highly recommend to everyone.

Sincerely,
Donna McCarthy
